We work wonders with water.™

Hi, I'm Water. I cover two-thirds of the earth. (See the blue part? That's me.) The thing is, only a teeny, tiny bit of me (one percent, to be exact) is suitable for drinking. The rest is either too salty (yuck) or too frozen (brrrr). That's why it's important to save me every chance you get. Here are a few tips to get you started.

Never leave the water running while brushing your teeth.

Save water by playing in the pool, not the sprinkler.

If you see a running toilet, stop it. (This saves 20 buckets of water a c day.)

Water plants early in the day before the sun gets too hot.

There are many ways to save water,
like taking shorter showers.

Well, it's the end of our book but not the end of our story.

Oh, and thanks for doing your part to help save me.

Your friend,
Water.
